

of New York City

Inspiring all girls
to be strong,
smart, and bold

Arielle Lapiano

Arielle Lapiano inspires people to use their voice strategically to make an impact. She is a writer and speaker passionate about helping women and girls empower themselves through effective communications, personal branding, confidence training, and mindfulness. She helps lawyers tell their stories as Director of Communications and Public Relations at Paul Hastings, a leading global law firm.

Lapiano has an extensive track-record of crafting and executing creative communications and branding initiatives for global organizations and working closely with top management. At Paul Hastings, she oversees global brand-building communications and activities for the firm's 22 offices.

Lapiano is also the Founder and CEO of Shattered Glass Tees and Shattered Glass Corp., social enterprises helping tomorrow's glass breakers, one bold thread at a time, by selling t-shirt, bags, and pillows that challenge gender stereotypes, and leading workshops and presentations on confidence and communications skills.

Lapiano also writes for Thrive Global and HerMoney and her work has appeared in other publications, including Forbes. Her stories explore a range of career, wellness, and parenting topics. She is a Certified Mindfulness Facilitator and leads weekly meditation sessions for various groups.